

Biden's Environmental Stupidity

Biden wants everyone in the US to suffer for the “good of the nation.”

As all socialists, communists, dictators, and tyrants know, if you have a large middle class you cannot control the nation and its people. Since taking office, every action and decision that Biden has made, in some manner, is designed to reduce the size of the middle class by burdening the people with illegal policies that in turn forces people to redirect their hard earned income to support those policies. For example, Biden's policy on fossil fuels in order to move the nation toward electric vehicles, was made in order to positively impact the so-called “climate change” narrative. Scientific research does not support this policy in many ways. Economic research indicates that the policy forces people into spending their income on items that they do not want and to abandon “high cost” merchandise (vehicles).

Coinciding with this automotive stupidity are the policies targeting washing machines, gas stoves, air conditioning, pizza ovens. All of these items can be called luxury items but they are not. They have all become necessities as America developed. Current housing construction no longer supports the concept of no air conditioning in homes or buildings. Washing machines are needed for good health, gas stoves are more efficient in heating and cooking food than electric stoves, and pizza, to many people, is a social and comfort food that impacts mental health.

While more examples can be discussed, the above, alone, demonstrates the stupidity of Biden's “green” policies when he claims that it is for the nation and the people. The reality is to shackle the middle class and drive the nation into a two class third nation. This is even more evident when you look at Biden's foreign policy actions. He has depleted our oil reserves to the point where there is not enough fuel available if a major natural disaster (hurricane, earthquake, etc.) took place. He has also depleted the military to the point where recruitment is severely down and our weapons arsenal is at a point where the country would be in dire straits if attacked.

There is no doubt that Biden is beyond his age mentally and is unable to keep up with current event and leadership models. Back in the “dark ages” leadership was always from behind the “front lines,” and Biden is caught up in the past. Keep this in mind as we discuss the next leadership concept.

There is a proverb that aptly describes Biden and his policy decisions. That proverb can be traced back to John Seiden's work, "Table Talk," published in 1654 (Grammarist, https://grammarist.com ). The proverb is, "Do as I say, not as I do." The proverb is used in many different situations. It is also implied simply by how an individual sees themselves.

It is often use by parents for instructing their children. In the 2016 campaign for president, Joe Biden routinely stated that he was the president for the people. Also during his campaign, Biden often presented himself as a grandfatherly person. . Consequently the media and others started calling Biden, Papa Joe.

As soon as Biden took office, his actions started to resemble those of another "Papa" president, Francois Duvalier, referred to as Papa Doc. As president of Haiti, Papa Doc soon became an autocratic dictator who ruined the island's economy and threw the island into the despairs of a third-world country.

Similar to Papa Doc, while living in a palatial palace, Papa Joe started making policy that uprooted our economy and started an economic and social downslide that has cost the nation billions of dollars and the establishment of socialistic constraints on the people.

While all of this was being done, Papa Joe did not follow suit. Instead he kept telling us that his policies were for the good of the people, while demonstrating his belief in the proverb, "Do as I say and not as I do."

Papa Joe was not behaving as a democratic president but rather as a tyrannical dictator. Until recently the general public had little knowledge of Papa Joe's far-reaching tentacles into their lives. Almost every day we hear of new findings of Biden's corruption and traitorous acts.

If Biden and his administration were truly concerned about the environment, the nation, and the people, they too would fall in line with the Biden policies. They all tell others what to do but exempt themselves from doing/following the same.

There has been no attempt to convert the "Beast" (president's car) to electric. Similarly Biden's administration ad cabinet members have not "gone green" with electric vehicles.

The White House has not converted its many gas stoves to electric, nor have the washing machines been changed to higher efficient ones. The air conditioning system still remains the same as it was with Trump. And yet, our nation's administrative leadership continues to admonish us with a “Do as I say and not as I do” mantra. What a batch of hypocrites!

“Do as I say, not as I do”
